The cumulative species list since 1978 contains 300 species.

With the exception of wader observations, these lists have been compiled by following a very similar program over each of the 27 Bird Weeks.

Wader observations were conducted from the shoreline at Hope Island in 1983 and 1984.

Boats were used from 1986 onwards subject to a suitable tide. An asterisk indicates those years in which wader observations were conducted.

The only variation is that two duplicate weekly programs were conducted in both 1995 and 1996. An interesting observation in 1995, thirty-one species were sighted in only one week, and similarly 29 species in 1996. The record for any one week is the 232 species recorded in 2002.
